Want to get tested for sexually transmitted infections?

Now you can get checked online.
From laptop to lab, STI testing is in your hands.

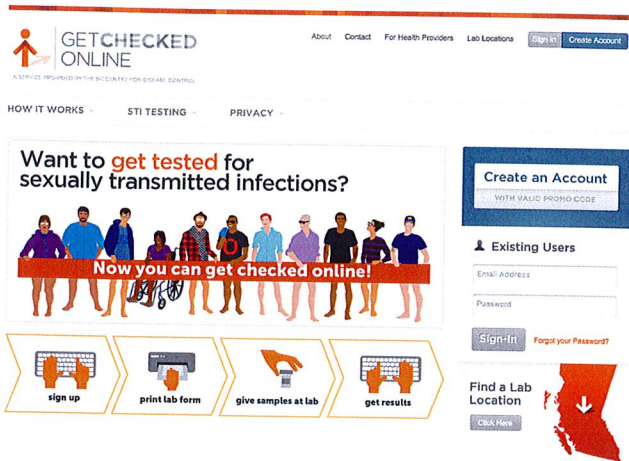

GetCheckedOnline.com

What is it?

GetCheckedOnline is an online testing service for sexually transmitted infections (STIs) and HIV. You can get tested without having to visit a doctor or clinic.

GetCheckedOnline is provided by the BC Centre for Disease Control. It's free, confidential and easy to use.

Who can use it?

GetCheckedOnline is best used for routine STI testing. If you test regularly for STIs, GetCheckedOnline may be a good option for you.

If you have symptoms of an STI or are worried about a recent sexual contact, you should get tested in person at a clinic or your doctor's office.

What can I test for?

- ✓ HIV
- ✓ Syphilis
- ✓ Chlamydia
- ✓ Gonorrhea
- ✓ Hepatitis C

GetCheckedOnline offers throat swab, rectal swab and urine tests for chlamydia and gonorrhea, and blood tests for HIV, syphilis and hepatitis C.

GetCheckedOnline does not test for all sexually transmitted infections. It does not test for hepatitis B, genital warts, trichomoniasis or herpes. Please visit a health care provider in person if you want to test for these infections.

How does it work?

1. Create an account

Visit GetCheckedOnline.com to create an account using the code on the front of this brochure.

2. Print a lab form

Complete an online questionnaire to get your recommended tests and then print your lab form.

3. Give samples at a lab

Take your printed lab form to a participating LifeLabs location (see available locations on the back of this brochure). At the lab, you will give blood and urine samples, and may also be given a kit to collect throat or rectal swabs.

4. Get results

When your test results are ready, you will be notified by email and can log into GetCheckedOnline to view your results. All results are kept confidential.

Visit GetCheckedOnline.com for more details.
